

Cheap International Airfare

Contributed by admin
Sunday, 20 August 2006

How to get Cheap International Airfare? People keep on brushing through the search engines when they are looking for cheap air fare. A number of options are available online in case you are looking for cheap air fare and that too in a short span of time. Given below are the some of the best deals that you will find on the net. These sites will give you just what you require and that too very easily!

* There are some websites where you can all the information about cheap airfare. There are a number of companies which list all the details about the cheap airfare on these sites. They are no search engines but these sites can give you all the information that you require.

Some top websites for cheap air fare are:

1. LowCostAirlines.org (etntelephone.com/lcostair.htm): you can get all that you need for cheap international fare. All the airlines, forums and search engines are listed in an orderly manner. It also lists as to where the airlines are based out so that you will know as to which one you should look for at different places.
2. Attitude Travel (www.attitudetravel.com/lowcostairlines.html#): this is huge site where you get all the information about cheap international airlines. The site gives details about the flights flying to and from Europe.

* There are a number of search engines also which provide information about cheap airlines to and from Europe. These Cheap International Airfare Search Engines can actually provide you with the best deals. Some of these search engines are listed below:

1. Sky Scanner (www.skyscanner.net): this site has excellent database which actually allow you to plan your trips, locations and dates. This feature separates it from the rest of the search engines.
2. Goo Flight (www.gooflight.com): this travel site includes cheap international airlines (16 in number) to 35 countries covering 230 cities. It includes cheap flights to Ireland, England, France, Italy and Spain.
3. Apple Fares (www.applefares.com): this is not a huge site. Only a few cheap airlines are listed on it. However they have excellent search options, one of the best available on the net.

Search Engines for cheap international fare within US or intercontinental are also available.

1. Qixo (www.qixo.com): this is probably the largest search engine.
2. Opodo (www.opodo.co.uk): this is a complete site with all the information about different airlines, fares, traveling partners etc.
3. Fare Chase (farechase.yahoo.com): you can all the information on this Yahoo site. It is also easy to use.

* Cheap International Airfare can also be obtained through Air Couriers. These couriers have always been there but they have never been considered a good cheap airfare alternative. When you fly using this, you actually give up your baggage space in order to make sure that a courier can use it to transport their goods. You get a huge discount though you never actually handle or see the courier shipments. You can log on to the following sites for more information:

1. The International Association of Air Couriers: www.courier.org
2. The Air Courier Association: www.aircourier.org
3. About Budget Travel, Air Couriers: budgettravel.about.com/cs/aircouriers
4. Air Hitch (www.air-hitch.org): this is a relatively new company which offers cheap airline fares by ride hitching.

* You can also read some articles on Cheap International Airfare. You can read either this "How Good is My Discounted Airfare Deal?" (www.etntelephone.com/goodbad.htm) or "Cheap Flights" (www.1stholidaystore.co.uk/cheapflights.htm). You can gather more information about cheap airfare by going through these articles.